

Hoffa Slate Vice President Busted for Corruption!

Rome Aloise, a Hoffa Slate Vice President and top Hoffa lieutenant, has been busted on massive corruption charges:

- ▶ Labor Racketeering, including asking employers for gifts during negotiations.
- ▶ Taking employers gifts like admission to the Playboy Super Bowl Party.
- ▶ Asking employers for jobs for his relatives, including asking a UPS negotiator for a job for his stepson from the management negotiators that moved UPS part-timers into Teamcare and cut their health benefits.
- ▶ Negotiating a sham collective bargaining agreement to give Teamster health benefits to the owner of an investment firm.

This is exactly why Local 804 needs to send delegates to the Teamster Convention who will support the candidates who are running against Hoffa in the International Union election.

The corruption charges are all documented in a 122-page report by the Independent Review Board, an anti-corruption panel. Read the charges at www.TeamstersUnited.org.
